

Hope

'Beyond hope.' Human instinct in the bleakest moments keeps hope alive. Things will surely change and take a turn for the better. We don't want to accept that anyone or anything is beyond hope because then we are left with despair.

There is no shortage of things that may lead us to give up hope. The conflict in Ukraine goes on. The climate crisis is beyond urgent. Economic and social turmoil worsens. Are we beyond hope?

In Holy Week, those who follow Jesus discover that popularity dissolves in betrayal, denial, miscarriage of justice, and death through torture. Jesus stuns us with despair in death as he shouts, 'My God! Where are you? Why have you left me?' Then at dawn on Easter Sunday the reality that Jesus is alive by God's power renews our faith that no one and nothing is beyond hope.

Happy Easter!
